

Architecture of Lighthouses Volume

The project therefore sought to link the different scales of space and time together. How should we evoke the site's past and at the same time, through architecture.

Archis

lighthouse building

The building plot lies on the thin strip of land between the Étang de Thau and the Mediterranean Sea on the northern side of the old town, close to the commercial port and its huge industrial facilities. As the last available parcel in a housing development project that began in the early 1990s, this plot is the first stage in an ambitious urban project that aims to convert huge swathes of aban